I work with individuals to gain a trusting therapeutic relationship in order to unpack and examine personal struggles. I believe people need to be understood through body, mind, and soul work. The body is the gateway to the unconscious, inner wisdom, and the soul. The roots of my work come from Mind / Body work (somatic therapy), Jungian depth psychology, and are heavily influenced by the work of the work of Gila Golub, Attachment Theory James Hollis, Carl Jung, and Dr. Neufeld's Developmental Science. I have both a private practice that specializes in trauma, and a forensic psychaitry counselling practice that works with psychosis, substance use, personality disorders, etc. I have been a clinical supervisor for over ten years, supervising master level accredited university students, as well as superivsing the counselling department in a Forensic Psychaitric Hospital. I also teach a graduate level "Theories of Clinical Supervision" for masters students.
