Clinical Consultation is a collaborative look at issues such as ethics, integration of theory and practice, and how to open up exciting new lines of exploration in your therapeutic work. With an aim to reduce counsellor isolation, our collegial development will offer a fresh perspectives to get you "unstuck" in your work with clients, and discover possibilities of where the work can take you, and your client.

Through the lense of your client cases, we will learn about who you are, the unique role you play in your clients' lives, and foster growth in both the personal and professional arenas.
