Hello! I'm Maria and I have been offering clinical supervision for over 13 years. I have experience working with supervisees in both academic and private settings, nurturing the growth of fellow mental health practitioners by fostering their clinical skills and developing overall clinical competence.

I offer a client-centered, trauma informed, culturally competent care. I specialize in working with minority groups under the lens of Liberation Psychology, evaluating the impacts of oppression and violence, and promoting liberation, growth, and well-being. This perspective allowed me to provide culturally sensitive care and contribute to the development of a comprehensive and integrated approach to therapy, where I work to help people understand, prevent, and overcome emotional distress and to promote personal development. I also have extensive practice working in Mental Health and Substance Use at the public sector.

I would be happy to support you or your team with clinical supervision and training!
